

Oscar Luzuriaga Gomez
Regional Vice President - Latin American Agribusiness Development
Corporation S.A. (LAAD AMERICAS)

Oscar Luzuriaga Gomez is currently the Regional Vice President of Latin American Agribusiness Development Corporation S.A. (LAAD AMERICAS) where he is responsible for management, strategy, supervision and compliance with LAAD's financial and operational objectives throughout the region.

Latin American Agribusiness Development Corporation S.A. (LAAD) is a private bank that for the past 40 years has focused on financing agricultural and agribusiness projects in the Latin American Region. Its shareholders are twelve leading agribusiness and financial corporations including: J.P. Morgan Chase, Rabobank, Bank of America, DEG Development Bank, IFC, Dole Food Company Inc, Cargill Inc, Monsanto Company, Deere & Company, The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Unilever Latin America, and Gerber Products Company.

Prior to that Mr. Oscar Luzuriaga Gomez was a Country Manager of of Ecuador, Colombia and Peru, with full responsibility for the bank's Management in the Andean region for LAAD AMERICAS and he was a Branch Manager for Banco Pacifico in Ecuador.

His education includes Kellogg School of Business Executive Development Program, MBA from IDE (Ecuador), B.S. in Agricultural Economics from the University of Florida at Gainesville, Agricultural Engineer from Zamorano University. Vice President of LAAD Americas for the Latin American Region, Country Manager of LAAD Americas for Ecuador, Colombia and Peru, Branch Manager for Banco Pacifico in Ecuador.

He is and has been a member of the board of directors of different companies focused in the agricultural and agribusiness sector.